

ACGME Leadership Skills Training Program for Chief Residents

The ACGME Leadership Skills Training Program for Chief Residents is being offered for free this year – it is a virtual program that takes place in 7 – 90 minute sessions. Registration requires residents to attend all seven sessions and obtain program director commitment to protected time. Video and audio capability are a prerequisite for participation. These two identical workshops are open to chief residents from all specialties.

This is a virtual version of its popular Leadership Skills Training Program for Chief Residents, which includes small-group breakout sessions providing chief residents with tools, skills, and learning opportunities to enhance their understanding of interpersonal communication and group dynamics, including skills critical to success and satisfaction as both a clinician and leader.

Registration is free but limited to 40 residents per workshop.
