

WSUSOM podcast on leadership in medicine Leading the Rounds

Peter Dimitrion and Caleb Sokolowski, WSUSOM students, have created a podcast on leadership in medicine called Leading the Rounds. They note that “Leadership development is overlooked in contemporary medical education, yet medical students and physicians find themselves in leadership roles from the beginning of their training. Leading the Rounds is a podcast focused on disseminating ideas in leadership development for medical trainees. In our most recent episode, we interviewed Dr. Brent James, who has been on the forefront of quality improvement and named one of Medicine's 100 Most Influential People. In this episode, we discuss Value-Based Care and what Dr. James sees as the Future of Medicine.” See the Leading the Rounds website for more information!