Creating A Professional Growth Plan in Times of Crisis

Thursday, June 25, 2020 | Noon - 1:30 p.m.

Presented by: Stephanie Hawkes, Assistant Director, Office of Multicultural Student Engagement & Shantalea Johns, Academic Services Officer III/Part-Time Faculty Member, School of Social Work

In this time of crisis and unprecedented change, we have been challenged in new ways as leaders, colleagues, and friends. As we work toward prioritizing professional and personal responsibilities, it's important to try to make space to consider what growth opportunities may exist in this time, and if we are ready to explore them. In this session, participants will be guided through reflective exercises to take inventory of where they are professionally, determine if and how a professional development plan is right for them, and generate next steps to make progress towards new goals.

RSVP by Tuesday, June 23rd to hold your seat.
A Zoom participation link will be sent 24 hours in advance.
